Basic principles for refugees' access to the labour market and welfare in Sweden

- There are work-based and residence-based welfare rights and entitlements
- Anybody who legally works in Sweden has a right to work-based benefits (e.g. unemployment benefit, sickness benefit, pensions)
- Anyone who is legally residing in Sweden is entitled to residence-based benefits (e.g. social welfare benefits, child allowance, housing allowance)
- Basic rule for legal residence: Anyone who legally stays in Sweden, or can be expected to stay, for one year or longer, is registered in the population registry and thus entitled to residence-based rights/benefits
- Once an asylum seeker is granted refugee status, subsidiary protection or a humanitarian status, they are registered in the population registry
- Asylum seekers are normally allowed to work during the asylum procedure (no priority examination or waiting time)

Special integration measures for recognised beneficiaries of protection (and their family members)

- Settlement in one of the 290 Swedish municipalities, according to a new distribution/allocation mechanism (since March 2016) – currently organised by the Public Employment Service *Arbetsförmedlingen, to be taken over by the Swedish Migration Agency *Migrationsverket from January 2017
- Beneficiaries of protection may also find accommodation by themselves
- Individual “integration plan” (normal duration: two years), including:
  - Language course “Swedish for Immigrants”: Normally 15-20 hours per week, day-time (there are also evening classes and special courses for persons with specific skills)
  - Shorter orientation courses
  - Internships, apprenticeships or on-the-job training

Other components of the integration plan

- Translation of foreign diplomas
- Guidance regarding the validation of formal degrees / education
- New: short, complementary education programmes for people with incomplete qualifications
- Financial allowances (daily):
  - 231:- to 308:- SEK per day (Monday-Friday), dependent on the degree of participation in the activities foreseen by the integration plan
  - Extra allowances in certain cases for children and housing
  - Reduced allowances when beneficiary starts working or does not fully participate, e.g. 50 % work or absence → allowances reduced by 50 %

Recent challenges

- Almost 163.000 new asylum seekers in 2015, more than ever
- Lack of affordable housing → Settlement process is delayed
- Over-burdening of responsible authorities and agencies (state and municipalities) → too little time for individual help
- Lack of simple jobs → Takes years until new arrivals find jobs
- Longer waiting times in the asylum system and for family reunification

New measures for improved labour market participation (1)

- Basic idea: Beneficiaries of protection have to get closer to the more dynamic regions within Sweden, where there are jobs
- But: Also in remoter regions, there is a certain need for labour (e.g. in agriculture, forestry, and tourism)
- Increased focus on internships, on-the-job training, earlier language tuition
- Make meaningful use of waiting times during the asylum procedure
- „100-Club“ – Special package solutions for bigger companies that commit to employing at least 100 new arrivals, including special placement services and wage subsidies

New measures for improved labour market participation (2)

- „Fast-tracks“ into the labour market for new arrivals with qualifications for shortage occupations, e.g.
  - Cooks (chefs)
  - Doctors, nurses, pharmacists and dentists
  - Butchers
  - School and pre-school teachers
- Government-subsidised jobs in the private economy („Step-in jobs“)
- More funding for civil society initiatives
- But: More restrictive approach to asylum and family reunification since autumn 2015 – clashes with ambition to facilitate and promote integration!

Thank you!
